

Editor's Pick: A Girl's Best Friend

With the arrival of Tiffany & Co. in Chinook Centre, things just got a little brighter for engagement hopefuls and those longing for one of the jewellery boutique's signature blue boxes. The 4,100-square-foot space carries an assortment of engagement rings, necklaces, accessories accented by diamonds, signature and new pieces, as well as collections by Jean Schlumberger, Elsa Peretti, and Paloma Picasso. We like this charming new take on their classic lock pendants in sterling silver, or 18-karat rose and yellow gold, $95 - $6,800 (Page 40).

TIGHT FITTIN' JEANS Try on a pair of upscale jeans worn by the likes of celebs Angelina Jolie, Cameron Diaz, Jake Gyllenhaal and Ryan Reynolds. Chinook Centre has scooped up the first 7 For All Mankind store in Canada. Inside its 1,000 square feet of space, the luxury brand that started in L.A. in 2000, offers up a variety of styles from straight-legged to bootcut to even bell-bottoms (which are rumoured to be making a comeback). The brand is known for its flattering cuts and tight fit, as well as its hand finishings. Styles start at $189 and go up from there (Page 33).

VINTAGE À LA MODE

Browse through almost a century's worth of stylish dresses at A Vintage Collective, a new eclectic consignment boutique in Fashion Central.

Their collections include feminine, edgy and tailored styles from the flapper 1920s to the rocking 1980s. Each piece is hand chosen by shop owners, and is cleaned and prepped so its ready to be worn. While some pieces are left in their original period style, others have been re-worked for a unique cross-decade look (Page 33).
